The Democratic State Convention adjournel without making a nomination for Chief

The P-opie's party, of Pennsylvania, held a Star-Convention at Harrisburgh, vesterday, to nominate State Officers and elect delegates to Chicago. A. J. Cuntin was nominated for Governor, and the del-gates were instruct il to east their vote as a unit for Gen. Cam-Last for Prosident.

We have as yet received no further details of the wright of the Hangarian. The loss of He exampt be far from one hundred. The House took four ballots for Printer, y storday, without effecting an election. A Pacific Railroad.

That Railroad we must have, and when we shall have it, is now the main question r garding it. The chief difficulty thus far encountered has grown out of sectional jealensies in relation to the route. It was beli-ved that a mail line would be a good ploneer for a Railroad. Congress therefore made a contract for the conveyance of the mail from St. Louis to San Francisco. Sectional projudices were here allowed to interfere, and the real object in having the Road was defeated. As a mail route, the distance was rendered hundreds of miles greater than it should have been. In his annual message, a year ago, Mr. Buchanan advocated the construction of the Railroad, but he favored the Southern route. This year he again recommandal the construction of the Road, but very wisely said nothing as to the route.

There are very cogent reasons for urging the construction of a Railroad to the Pacific. One of the principal ones is, that it would allord a speedy means of communicating with our possessions on the Pacific, and that in case of war it would enable us to concentrate our troops at a given point in a comparatively short time. It would thus be not only a means of safety, but would be a route over which troops and ammunition could be conveyed most cheaply.

The tim- has arrived, however, in which we need a road of this kind, in order to facilitate the travel between the Eastern and Western portions of our country. Now the journey mest be made by a circuitous route, which is liable to interruption in case of war, or it must be made overland in vehicles for Douglas and three more for their excel- engagements. That instances of failure at which cannot be driven over a few miles an lent presiding officer, FRED. HORN. bour. There are vast numbers of emigrants, too, who at present are forced to plod their weary way across the plains, but who would be glad to avail themselves of the railroad, if it were now constructed. The number of them that massed over the plains last year is estimated at thirty thousand, while the arrivals and departures at San Francisco, by wat-r, were in 157 about forty thousand. The road being built and the facilities for traveling thereby greatly increased, the inducements to emigrants and others, would be proportionally added to, and the number of passengers conveyed over it yearly would increase rapidly. Not only towards California is the tide of emigration now flowing, but also towards Oregon and Washington, When, then, the journey to those parts of our land is an easier one than it is now, they will rapidly is populated by intelligent and industrious people. The wants of these people must necessarily be supplied, and to meet them many of the products of the eastern portion of our country must be conveyed thither. Thus the business of the railroad must be increased in the ratio of the popula-

Even the people of Utah would consume a large amount of various articles which they cannot afford to take now, but which they could take if the rates of transportation were reduced. It is hardly necessary to mention the various other benefits which California and our other Pacific possessious, would reap by laying a speedy and a comparatively theap means of communication with this part of our country. It would benefit them socially by preventing that separation of families which now appears unavoidable, while the shortening of the time in which the mail would be conveyed, would add to their commercial interests. It must be remembered, too, that a Pacific Railroad would also convey to us the products of China, India, and other parts of the East. The commerce with Japan promises to be eventually of great importance, and it was but a few weeks since that no less than four vessels arrived at San Francisco with valuable cargoes from that country. The proposed railroad being in operation, a large portion of the light and valuable freight that is now brought here from the East would necessarily be car-

FROM MADISON.

Editorial Correspondence of the Sentinel

Madison, Thursday, Feb. 23, 560. When I closed my last letter, so as to be in ime for the mail, the several District Conentions had just completed their list of Delegates and Electors. In the first and second Districts, the choice was made without much division; but in the third there was onite an animated contest. Judge LARRAnez had come home, post haste from Washington, or purpose to be elected one of the delegates to Charleston; and at the Horicon Judicial Convention, last week, was formally nominated for that post by his "man Friday." This attempt, however, to forestall the action of the State Convention re-acted against Judge LABRABEE, and the opposition to him assumed so formidable a front that his name was withdrawn from the canvass after the first ballot. Mr. HOBART fared but little better. Though warmly pressed by his friends he was beaten, on the second ballot, by John Fitzgerald, of Oshkosh. He was suspected--I know not how truly--of "facingboth-ways" on the Presidential question. I append a complete list of the Delegates, Alternates and Electors, lest any omissions

The weather turned a very sharp corner, last night. Yesterday morning, it was raining smartly: the streets and sidewalks were deep in mud, and a warm southerly wind was blowing. To-day, the sun is shining brightly; a keen nor'-wester whistlesthrough the streets; the mud and water have disappeared, and ice and hard frozen ground have R. K. taken their place.

The readers of the Press & Tribune have not forgotten Mr. Liucoln's scathing exposi-tion of Douglas' crimes against the North, in his famous Cincinnati speech. It was so olose, logical, itruthful and convincing, that the Little Giant has seized upon it as his strongest commendation to the Oligarchy of the South, and through two members of the Illinois delegation in Congress, Logan and Fouke, who are willing to do any dirty work, has franked over 50,000 copies of this speech to politicians of the slave States. A copy of the Douglas edition is before us. In staring type, it is headed thus:

THE CITY.

BELIEVING that the subject of Life Insurnce is one of general interest, and one of which the public have, as vet, but partial knowledge and small appreciation, and believing that, by extending their knowledge of its history and principles, and by enhancing their appreciation of its beneficial results we shall contribute to the public good, we shall prepare and publish from time to time a series of articles upon the various branches of the subject. We shall use the best authorities at our command, and endeavorto present, in a condensed and readable form, well-established facts and principles, and only such. First in order, naturally comes the history of Life Insurance. About 150 years ago, an English clergyman, deeply affected by the destitute condition of many families of deceased clergymen, set to work to devise a scheme by which each might, during his lifetime, from his regular stipend, make provision for his family after his decease. The resuit of his thoughts and plans was the formation of a mutual association, called "The Amiable Society for a Perpetual Assurance Office," It was incorporated by Queen Ax-ME in 1706, and is still in successful operation, being 154 years old. No date being then known relating to the value of life at different ages, all its members paid the same sum yearly, and the amount thus collected was distributed, each year equally, among the members of the families who had died that year. This society now conforms to modern scientific usages and is conducted upon the just principles which able mathematicians have deduced from reliable statistics. Great pains have been taken in the collection of these statistics, and in the preparation of Life Tal s from them. BARRETT devoted twenty-five years of diligent labor to the preparation of his tables, Dr. PRICE and others deoted, perhaps, each an equal amount of time and labor. While he, as a poor printer, was endeavoring to inculcate lessons of economy upon the American people, the Rev. Dr. PRICE, his friend and correspondent, was endeavoring to do the same thing in England. The labors of the latter survive in the oldest reliable Life Table, and in the largest Life Crosse Road at Tunnel, and another on the Insurance Company, in point of accumulated funds, in the world—the "Equitable" of London. The labors of Dr. Franklin survive in the oldest Life Insurance institution of this continent, viz : "The Protestant Episcopal Association, for the benefit of Widows and Children of Clergymen in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," incorporated 1769.

It was significant to remark that Insurance in general, so far as we are able to while the Democratic counties generally vo- trace it, is an astonishingly clean record. We glean the above items, in reference to the history day of April next. BROADWAY.—Broadway is the only street in America that can bosst of a European reputation. Englishmen are as familiar with it as they are with Regent Street and Corn Hill, yet the accounts given of it by British, French, and Gerwan travolers are so various and conflicting that it is altogether impossible for a foreigner to form any definite iden of this famous thoroughfare. Dr. McKay describes it in his letters as a street of un-equalled splendor, combining all the magnificence, the solidity, elegance, galety, and ar-chitectural beauty of Regent Street and the Boulevards, the warehouses being marble palaces, and the whole street lined with doupalaces, and the whole street lined with double rows of slms, sycamores and allanthus trees. Dickens, in his "Notes," describes it as being a very dull street, not enlivened even by a hand organ. That pleasant actor of the Rachel troups, who wrote letters from New York to Figure, saw nothing in Broadway but fire engines, and shops in which lace veils and cabbages were sold at the same counter. I forgot what Monsieur Ampire said about it, though I remember it was not complimentary; but Lord Radsteek, who was in New York last winter, on his return home, said in a speech, by way of Illustrahome, said in a speech, by way of lilustra-ting the natural tendency of democracy to dirt, that Broadway was kneedeep with mud.

Dated Madison, Dec. 29, 1859. EROM MADISON.

Editorial Correspondence of the Sentinel.

Madison, Feb. 22nd, 1860. The train which left Milwaukee, Tuesday evening, and brought us safely to Madison, was well filled with Legislators returning to their posts after a two days' rest from their labore; delegates hastening to the Democratic State Convention, which is to pass upon the claims of the rival houses of Douglas and Buchanan; and politicians of various bucs and grades coming to watch the moving of the waters. The conversation in the cars wore a decidedly political aspect, but was good natured withal. The clouds gathered rapidly as we sped our way westward, and presently we heard the welcome but long unfamiliar sound of the pattering rain. By the time we reached Madison it was falling fast, and it continued to rain heavily all night .-It is the first good soaking rain they have had in this region since last August, and will supply many an exhausted spring and dried up cisteru. The throng about the Capital House and American last night, as well as in the Senate and Assembly Chambers, bespoke the near approach of the Democratic State Convention which assembles at noon to day. All the old leaders of the Democratic party were present, fixing the wires and regulating the puppets. "Our LARRABEE," quitting his post at the Federal Capital, has come to Madison to supervise the doings of the Convention. He and Mr. HOBART are rival candidates from the Third District, for delegate to Charleston, and the contest between them promises to be quite sharp. A coolness appears to have grown up among several of the gentlemen who labored so zealously together last fall, for the benefit of the Democratic ticket.

It is quite clear that the Douglas men will control the State Convention and shaps its proceedings to suit themselves. They are confident of carrying matters in their own way, and talk even more disparagingly of the Buchanan Administration than the Republicans do. The distribution of the Federal "loaves and fishes" is the special Kenosha. theme of their complaint and censure. The BUCHARAN men, of whom there is quite a "smart sprinkling," are working quietly, but earnestly to prevent any resolutions of instruction, and to secure the choice of mode rate men to Charleston. But they will make no open demonstration, nor provoke a test vote, unless they find that they can muster in pretty respectable force. Quite a number of "proxies" will be in the Convention, from delegates holding offices under the Federal Government, unwilling to commit themselves, as between Douglas and Buchanan, for fear

The Legislature, having patriotically resolved to observe Washington's Buthday, adjourned over from yesterday afternoon to Thursday morning. They also resolved to for a salute of one hundred guns, in honor of the day, and Capt. HARRY BINGHAM, who has been charged with the duty, will discourse thunder from Young America" at high noon. It is still raining this morning, though the clouds are broken and the storm, which raged furiously all night, is about over. R. K.

THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

Madison, Wednesday, Feb. 22, '60. Punctually at 12 o'clock, to-day, FRED. Honn, the President of the Democratic State Convention, called that august body to order, and directed the Secretaries to call the roll of Delegates. The body of the Hall was well filled, and there were two or three hundred spectators in the lobbles and galleries. Just as the Convention organized, the "Stars and Stripes" were displayed from the front of the Capital and "Young America," under the charge of HARRY BINGHAM, began to thunder forth its sainte, in honor of WASHING-TOX's BIRTHDAY. As the piece was stationed close to the Capitol and speaks in remarkably loud tones, the business of the Convention, during the first hour, was conducted amid more, or less "noise and confugion." Mr. Honn, however, is an excellent pass upon their respective claims to sents .- | kind on his way, and proposed to establish Shortly after 2 o'clock, the Convention, hav- one here, also. ing completed its list of members, with the exception of four contested questions, which circulated in town soliciting names for memuntil 4 o'clock P. Here the matter dropped. It is understood

In this connection, we must say that we don't find much consistency of some Repubthat this letter was written by a leading Bo-CHARAR Postmaster in this State, and sholo-sed a ticket for Delegates to the Charleston Convention, headed by H. C. HOBART.

After this episode, the Convention adjourned till 9 P. M. to allow the District Conventions to select Delegates, Atternates and

The contest for delegates from the Third District was quite spirited; "our LARRA-BEE," as well as Mr. HOBART, being defeated in their aspirations to represent the Democracy at Charleston. I have no time to add more before the mail closes, except to say that the proceedings thus far have been orderly and, all things considered, harmonious. R. K.

Is Judge Dixon a Know Nothing? MR, EDITOR:-A few days ago I noticed an article in the Madison Patriot, over the signature of H. B. MUNN, in which, among other things, it said that "Judge Dixon never joined a Know-Nothing Lodge at Portage City, and that there never was a Lodge of that kind established at Portage City, &c.'' How Mr. Menn became so wise as to know that there never was a Know-Nothing Lodge here, I am unable to tell. But let us have the facts have had the same opinion. I am unable to tell. But let us have the facts of the matter. In the fall of 1854 there arose a difficulty, (chiefly among the foreign population of Portage,) which might very properly be called a riot. This affair caused a great deal of excitement amongst all classes, some upholding the rioters, others denouncing them in very bitter terms. The rioters were chiefly Democrats, and they claimed the right to monopolize the polls at that election, presiding officer, and was ably seconded by | they beating away those from the polls who Judge Armstrong, of Janesville, the prin- did not agree with them in their politics, cipal Secretary; so that matters went along and themselves voting when, and as they with reasonable celerity. PORTAGE CATY, Feb. 21, 1860.

Done out of a Firty.—Prof. Rumiston, of the University Heights Institute, was swindled out of fifty dollars on Wednesday. A Convention, in virtue of long and faithful service in the party ranks; but he had no credentials and was known to be friendly to the Administration. "Pump" was rejected on the ground that he did not live in the County which he sought to represent; but he did not seem over-pleased with the action of the Convention.

These points having been severally acted upon, Mr. P. H. Smith, of Outagamie, offered three resolutions:

died out of fifty dollars on Wednesday. A man representing himself to be a Mr. Benton, of St. Louis, called to make arrangements for the education of a younger brother. Everything proved satisfactory, and he expressed a desire to pay the term expenses—$100 in advance, tendering a check on a St. Louis Bank for $150, purporting to be drawn by "Stevens & Co." to the order of Benton. The Professor thought it all straight, and paid over $50. Farther inquiries proved that "Mr. Benton" was a swindler, who had "sloped" without paying his tavern bills. The check, of course was worthless.—Cleve. Her.

So long as the State Rights doctrine is adhered to, so long is no hope for any reform or abolition of that despotic power of the Southern States, which disregards all constitutional rights. No personal liberty, no personal security, no free press, no free speech and assemblage and even not the Constitution of the United States is existing in the Southern States. Why? Because the power of State Rights is that monster. the power of State Rights is that monster, which devours all the guarantied rights of

I have not the least doubt that as soon as we have a Republican Senate and a Republican President, and the appointing power of the South is broken down, the Supreme Court must and will be reformed. I still motion of Jackson Hadler, by including latters, as cutting safer than the love safe.

Mr. Rockwell here again called for the are no our National Government; one of marging our National Government; one of marging our National Government;

Mr. Rockwell here again called for the reading of the letter to which he had previously referred, and the Convention, by a strong vote, seconded the call.

Mr. Sat. Clark, of Dodge, said that he had come in possession of this letter, which did not belong to him, and was indeed addressed to another person; but the signature catching his eye, he could not resist the temptation to read it, and it was rich beyond expression. Still, as the letter was the property of another person, he could not read it without that gentleman's permission. of final decisions of the same laws so that Mr. Dominick Devanuer, of Marquette, the latter are nothing but a checkered laby-

In conclusion, it is a very important fact that Judge Gholson, who has just been elected Unief Justice by the Republican party of Ohio, affirms, also, in a late decision, the appellate power of the Supreme Court in certain cases, when the constitutionality of a case is in question.

QUEEN VICTORIA AND HEE DAUGHTER'S BEAUX.—"Malakoff?" tells the following i his last letter to the N. Y. Times: English society in Paris just now finds a nice bit of gossip in the movements of the young Prince of Orange, who has been in France for a month past. This young Prince, about twenty years of age, and heir to the throne of Holland, is desumed as you already know, to marry the Princess Alice, the sec-ond daughter of Queen Victoria. But the Queen, having herself made a marriage of inclination, holds essentially to the doctrine

Just before the time fixed for the visit to London, the Queen learned from Paris, by some means or other, that the young Prince had found some agreeable, if not very respectable, company, in the gay French capital, and that to sum up the Prince's French visit in one word, he had been "going it." Now the Queen is a good mother and a good woman, as every one knows, and does not approve of such peccadilloes even in the Prince; so that just as his juvenile Highness was on the point of leaving Paris for London, he received a telegraph despatch from the Hague peremptorily ordering him to forego his visit to London and to start instantly to Bordeaux! The Prince's astonishment knew no bounds! Who ever heard of a Prince being exiled to the staid old vine Prince being exiled to the staid old vine-growing, brandy-making town of Bordeaux! What did it all mean? But the order came what did it as head that he start that from the King, his father, and must be obeyed. The Queen was not willing to receive the young gentlemen into her family, fresh from his Parisian conquest, and thought a ventilation in the direction of Bordeaux,

SHIPMENTS OF COPPER FOR 1859 .- Here-SHIPMENTS OF LOFFER FOR 1809.—Here-with we present our roaders with a correct statement of the amount of copper shipped during the past season by the several mines of this district. It will be observed that the aggregate does not materially from vary those made in November, being 2666 tons and 311 pounds, justeed of 2666 tons and 1831 lbs, as then estimated. Our review of the ship ping books, in November, was a harried one and their books had not been compared with those at the various mines, hence the variance now and then. Our chief error seems to have been in National, which snipped 328 1-2 tons, instead 314 tons, as then re-

Interesting Foreign Items A PROJECT is on foot for building in Paris twelve large palaces for the twelve Marshals of France, on the Avenue de Segur, near the Invalides. The question of the manner of paying for them, however, has not been as yet settled. yet settled.

Two elegant swords, one for Napoleon, and the other for the King of Sardinia, have been bought at Rome by the subscription of 20,000 persons in that city. But the Pope forbids a public presentation of them, and they haug on exhibition in the artist's window, silent preachers of Italian independence to admiring crowds.

Case of Restitution .- The Paris Droit narrates the following:—"On the 7th of De-cember, 1855, a well-dressed man entered a jeweller's shop on the Boulevard Poissonneire, and requested a shopwoman who was in the place to show him some gold chains. White looking at them, he saw a pin orna-mented with precious stones in the upper the individual snatched up the chains and ran out of the shop. A cry of "Stop thief!" I was raised by the shop woman, and the man was arrested. On being taken before the commissary of police, the chains were not found on him, as he had passed them, it was thought, to a confederate. He gave what is supposed to be the false name of bebrun, but under which he was afterwards tried and condemned to two years' imprisonment.—Having undergone his santener, he was set at liberty, and nothing more was heard of the affair. A short time since, however, a packliberty, and nothing more was heard of the affair. A short time since, however, a package was delivered at the same shop by a porter, who said that he had been sent by a gentleman who had paid him beforehand. The box, on being opened, appeared to contain nothing but boulons, but on being turned out there were found at the bottom the identical four chains which had been stolen in 1855.

A Parisian Shormakuri's Donge.—A ladies' shormaker at Paris, named Mathieu, has been trying to set himself on his feet by traducing those of his customers. Being hard up for money, he conseived the idea of writing his memoirs, together with, to use his own expression, "the biography of the feet" of all his customers. He sent a circular, together with a proof-sheet, to every one of them, politely stating that any lady who might wish her name not to appear in this book must be good enough to remit him the sum of 15t. The following specimens of the biography were read in court: "Madame A—lives Rue—, No.—, first floor; married in 1844; three children; pays badly; feet very difficult to fit; instep too flat; two corns and three busions; walks awkwardly, and wears her shoes out on the inside very fast. Madame B—, Rue—, No.—, two pair stairs back; still an old made; borrows children to take with her into the Tuilleries garden; pays her bills, but makes a hard bargain; feet spreading; toes crowding one over the other; two corns and a bunion. Madame B—, Rue—, No.—, fifth floor; formerly kept a cookshop; has two sons, privates in the army of Africa; two unmarried daughters; gives her children nothing, and never pays until served Africa; two unmarried daughters; gives her children nothing, and never pays until served with a writ; feet flat, large and fatty, and very apt to burst the leathers; a great many corns and bunions all mixed up together! Several ladies applied to were weak enough to pay the 15f, but others complained to the police, and the literary shoemaker has been condemned, for eseroquerie, to a month's imprisonment—assuredly a lighter sentence than he deserves. he deserves.

AN "ARTFUL" TRIOR.—Mr. D.—, a failionable London tailor, has just been the victim of a rather ingenious though rescally trick. In the early part of December last, a gentlemanly-looking man called and gave him an order for with a him an order for a suit of mourning, to be made in a couple of days, as he had to attend a frueral at the expiration of that time. Being told that he could be accommodated in two hours if he required, he was measured accordingly. Having a small painting with him, he called Mr. D——'s attention carelessly toit, and said that a member of Parliament had offered him eighty guineas for it. On leaving Mr. D——, he desired that gentleman to be good enough to take care of the picture until the mourning habiliments were finished, assigning as a reason that. being so in an order for a suit of mourning, to be hished, assigning as a reason that, being so near the Paddington Railway terminus, it would save him the trouble of carrying it about with him until he departed on his mournful expedition. This being readily acceded to, the picture was hung up by Mr.
